Objective

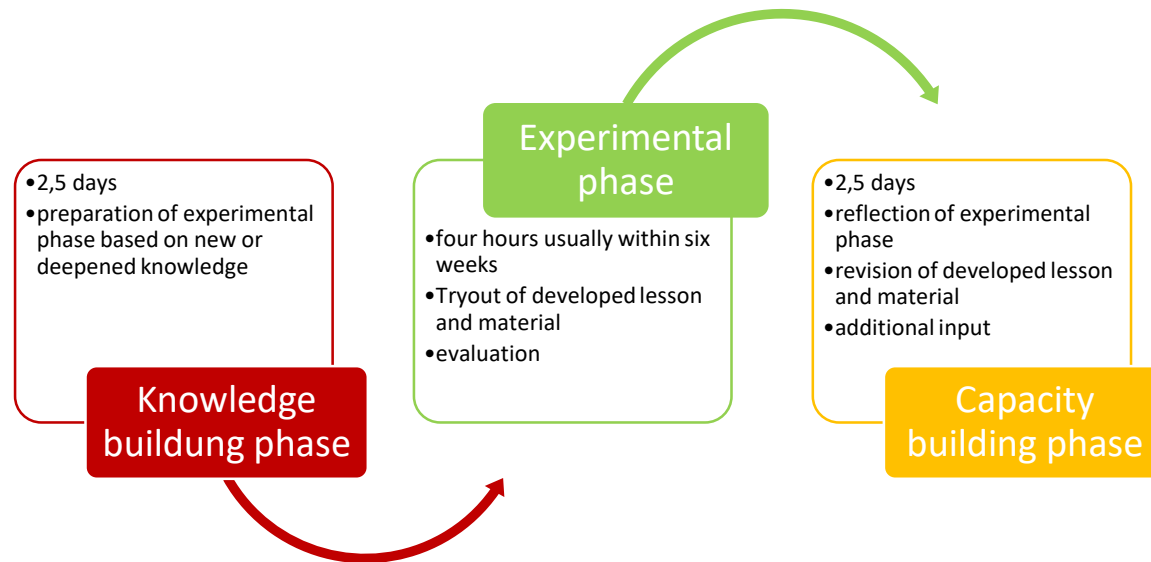

The Training Programme aims at offering a practice oriented Training for in service teachers. It addresses teacher trainers in order to give them support for developing teacher trainings that take into account national and local contexts as well as the teachers' needs. So flexibility and additivity to various contexts of doing school is one of its main advantages. The overall goal is to change school practice in order to foster students learning and life chances, no matter what starting conditions they come along with. By this, it is a project focusing on inclusion in a wide sense.

Structure

The training program is designed for an up to 40-hour in-service teacher training. There could be sessions that take one entire day or sessions that only take a few hours and may be held after school. They could take place outside the school or, ideally, inside it as part of the internal training scheme of a particular school. It basically depends on the specific background, needs and circumstances in each country that makes use of the training program. Due to findings in modern didactical research it seems to be the better option to offer schools individual trainings. They can directly be applied to the didactical setting in the respective lessons and thus respond to the most urgent needs of teachers and students as well as all others involved in school life.

Regardless of where it takes place and how it is individually designed due to schools' needs, the training is divided into three phases: a knowledge building, an experimental and a capacity building phase (see figure below).

LADECI – Language Acquisition through Democratic Citizenship Education

For the experimental phase the participants are expected to spend four hours on reflecting their practice and on preparing the second workshop. The knowledge building and the capacity building phase are designed as workshops. Each of these two workshop phases consists of up to 20 hours of training time carried out/conducted in class and online. One hour is defined as a 45-minute lecture (in the following called session) and 15 minutes break. So the whole training consists of 40 sessions of 45 minutes each. When designing the training program the idea of modularization was crucial. Taking in account this paradigm the training program is structured in four modules (which will be explained later on). One module consists of a variable number of topics (in the following called bricks) and these bricks consist at least one session but mostly of more than one session. This detailed structure has been chosen in order to give teacher trainers the possibility to either use the whole training program or adapt those parts needed for their specific target group. Although also single sessions can be chosen by the trainers, there is a recommendation to stick to the bricks, because they are planned and designed as coherent parts. Further discussions about possibilities how to adapt the training program will be offered in the Training Manual (IO7). The module can contain present as well as blended learning settings. It also includes the possibility of self-organized learning. Sessions brought out in the latter way are nevertheless part of the calculation of overall sessions. That means, self-organized learning parts are not designed for outsourcing work load. The maximal workload of the whole in-service teacher training has – as mentioned above – an amount of 40 sessions of 45 min. plus four hours for reflection during the experimental phase.

The Training Programme contains a number of modules, always focusing on both, Language Acquisition and Democratic Citizenship Education. Of course, some modules are more focusing on the first, others on the latter. But the connection of both dimensions, which can be seen as the core of the whole LADECI idea, is at the centre of all modules. The modules are not limited to the first workshop (knowledge building) but stretched over the whole time of the in-service teacher training, which means they are bridging the experimental phase.

The Training Programme is linked to classroom material, that can be given to and used by teachers, a teaching guideline offering advice on how to plan and conduct and a trainers manual. The latter is designed as additional resource for teacher trainers, supporting them when planning a concrete teacher training.
